

SEND A MESSAGE TO SACRAMENTO!

Make Your Voice Heard Through Art

The California Community Colleges Student Success Stories Project is creating life-size statues of successful students to illustrate the impact community colleges have on people's lives. We are sending these statues all over the state as well as to Sacramento to dramatize the effects of budget cuts to community colleges.

We need volunteers to paint these statues. It's an opportunity to express yourself visually while making a political statement.

Painting supplies will be included, but if you have a favorite brush, bring it with you!
