Vicki Draves will receive alumna award

Victoria "Vicki" Manalo Draves, pictured above with the two gold medals she earned in the 1948 London Olympics where she was the first woman in Olympic history to win both springboard and platform diving medals in the same games, will be given the City College of San Francisco Distinguished Alumna Award at the 2005 Commencement ceremony May 27. She also became the first American of Asian ancestry to win an Olympic Gold Medal. Vicki and her twin sister were born December 31, 1924 in San Francisco. She began diving when she was 16, but soon encountered problems because she was Filipino. Her diving club insisted that she drop her Filipino last name and take her mother's maiden name of Taylor. After taking on Lyle Draves as her new coach (whom she later married), Vicki won many diving titles.

Yudy Cristo and Sandy Kitson selected as student speakers

Yudy Cristo and Sandy Kitson have been selected by the Graduation Committee to deliver the student speeches at the 2005 Commencement ceremony of City College of San Francisco. The event will begin at 5:30 P.M. in the Nob Hill Masonic Center, 1111 California St. The keynote speaker will be Noel Lee, founder and head monster of Monster Cable Products, Inc.

Yudy Cristo was born and raised on the Caribbean island of Cuba. It was where she "learned that discipline, sacrifice and perseverance are effective tools to confront life's hardship and challenges. My life was colored with the misery of domestic violence, the depression of an alcoholic father, who ultimately abandoned us, and with the struggles that my divorced mother faced raising her three children.

YUDY CRISTO

In Cuba, Cristo graduated with academic honors, earning a scholarship to attend medical school. That prospect ended when she and her family moved to the U.S. in 1997. She felt that the intellectual and social limitations that she was feeling could be solved by education and enrolled in ESL at City College of San Francisco in the summer of 1998. However, the most profound change occurred with her marriage and the birth of her two children. This led her directly to the Child

Development and Family Studies Department and "helped me discover my passion for educating young children."

Sandy Kitson says that in high school, "I knew that my educational path was not going to be the ideal one. I was already working in high school and didn't plan to be financially dependent on my parents. Then my mother moved away for a job and I decided to stay here on my own."

A friend got her interested in graphic design classes, which she found "were the most fun classes I'd ever been to, and so different in content and structure from academic classes that I couldn't imagine going back to sitting through hour-and-a-half lectures. As my classes got more advanced, the projects got more complex, interesting and difficult. I came to see that while I enjoyed doing the creative conceptual work, production was not my favorite thing to do. I'll always appreciate design, admire the good stuff and cringe at the bad, but my natural tastes and preferences are more suited to the management and business side of things. Sandy is thrilled that "focusing on getting a degree and starting a career with it led to a discovery about myself: what I don't want to do. I'm ready to take this knowledge and apply it to my next goal."

Indonesian Festival begins

CCSF Metro Area Network update

City College has been upgrading its network to improve connectivity to the campuses.

Up until recently, the network that connects the City College campuses with the Ocean Avenue campus has been T-1 lines with limited bandwidth capacity. On the Ocean Avenue campus, the connectivity between buildings is fiber optic, which gives more bandwidth, allows for faster communications and allows high bandwidth applications such as video. To bring the same level of connectivity to all campuses, City College's ITS Department has been working with the City and County of San Francisco's Department of Telecommunication to have fiber optic cable installed to each of the campuses. This is known as the CCSF Metro Area Network. As of May 1st, the fiber connections have been installed linking Ocean Avenue, Evans, Southeast, and Gough Street.

All voice/data communications between these campuses are now on the new fiber optic cable. The remainder of the campuses, Downtown, John Adams, Alemany, will be done by the end of 2005. Chinatown and Mission Campuses will be converted to fiber upon completion of their new campuses.

I. Call to Order

The meeting was called to order at 2:40 p.m.

II. Adoption of Agenda

Fred and Lisa pulled Item VIII. E. Council consented to adopt the agenda.

III. Approval of Minutes: April 6, 2005

Council approved the minutes as amended.

IV. Officers' Reports

A. 2nd Vice President Sunny Clark reported on the Board of Trustees meeting that was held to revisit Construction Manager at Risk. Sunny thanked Susan Lopez for her report, and expressed her appreciation that, at the meeting, AFT 2121 President Ed Murray also spoke in support of the process and that faculty members from Mission Campus were there. The Resolution to approve Construction Manager at Risk passed unanimously. This process should reduce change orders and cost overruns. We expect the College and small local businesses to benefit.

B. Sunny asked that we support AB 982, which would eliminate the health fee waiver. The Chancellor wants to work at the State level to secure funding for programs such as ours which serve so many low income students, rather than increasing fees. Sunny will urge the Associated Students to accept a $2 increase because funding issues are sorely burdening Student Health. Council applauded Sunny in her work on both issues.

V. Committee Appointments

No committee appointments

VI. Unfinished Business

A. Update on 2005 Senate Elections

Please encourage faculty to vote for the 2005-2006 Academic Senate Executive Council.

B. Update on Administrators' Evaluations

Administration evaluations are nearly completed. Over four times as many short administration evaluation forms were requested compared to last year. We will look into Trustee Berg's suggestion to have the evaluations done online. Discussion ensued about issues regarding online or computerized evaluations.

C. Approval of Proposed Failing Students' Registration Policy

Council discussed the language in the Draft Resolution on Failing Students' Registration. The resolution was perfected by adding explicit language that this applies to students expecting to fail, that the Senate is investigating the feasibility of creating the mechanism, and that "failing" means earning a D, F, or NC.

Resolution 2005.04.20.01

BE IT RESOLVED that the Executive Council approve the amended Failing Students' Registration Policy.

Carried unanimously.

D. Approval of Proposed New Program Review Framework Language

The change being proposed is the optional section, Part III, 1.1.a. The Department Chairs have signed off on this optional step.

Resolution 2005.04.20.02

BE IT RESOLVED that the Executive Council approve the New Program

Review Framework Language.

Carried unanimously.

VII. Special Order of Business: Accreditation Self-Study Listening Session

The Executive Council participated in a lively listening session with members of the Accreditation Self Study Team. Interested faculty can read Ann Zinn's summary.

VIII. New Business

A. Discussion of State Senate Plenary was postponed until next meeting.

B. The College Core Performance Indicators Report: A User's Manual

Susan Lopez presented an informative and entertaining power point presentation with commentary on how to use the College Core Performance Indicators. The Council expressed appreciation to Susan for the presentation.

C. Council tabled ESS Recommendation EMT7: Automated Attendance until next meeting.

D. Council tabled ESS Recommendation CLL5: Skills Across the Curriculum Advisories until next meeting.

IX. Announcements and Open Forum

A. Winnie Leong announced that the Myanmar Club will have their Water Festival with food and music in Ram Plaza on Friday.

Respectfully submitted, Jane Sneed,
Academic Senate Secretary

Teaching, Learning Technology Roundtable (TLTR)

Minutes of the April 11, 2005 meeting

Minutes of March 7, 2005, meeting were approved after modifications.

Faculty Survey for Technology Use –

Pam Mery of the office of Research, Planning, and Grants distributed photocopies of two research instruments: a new, proposed survey directed at counseling faculty and staff, and the last faculty technology survey. She also distributed an outline of related discussion points from the March meeting. There was general support for a new survey now.

Bonnie asked for clarification about omitted items, Pam explained that items that result in 85% or greater majorities are not needed, e.g., a question such as “do you have email?” is unnecessary.

Question #14: “how often to you use a computer for work?” had a similar level of saturation. These items are no longer informative. Completely new areas of technology usage warrant additional research, so there will be a separate survey of faculty input regarding Banner targeted at those who have accounts. Asking survey questions about software in use such as Groupwise may be moot points, because CCSF cannot rewrite the software. New discussion addressed various issues: (1) There was a suggestion that the Groupwise website might be used for faculty feedback on an on-going basis, rather than using the survey. (2) Using the icon rather than technical language to identify Groupwise may be necessary. (3) Bonnie asked what we will do with the responses and the statistics they generate. She pointed out that one value of a survey is to raise awareness; therefore, there is merit in using a paper form rather than an online form because it will reach those who are not using technology as much. Pamela says the hardcopy might have a different form than an online form. For example, the online survey could branch to follow-up questions than depend on responses. Tom suggested a possible question might ascertain what percent of faculty know that accessibility is required on our web sites in the context of State Code 508. Mamie suggests adding a question about “electronic materials provided by educational publishers.” It was noted that “very satisfied” may psychologically be the best first choice on a scale of ranging to “not satisfied.” The general results of previous surveys are posted on the ORPG page. Pamela noted that in previous surveys some faculty did not respond at all, and some did not respond to every item. Janet suggested revamping “INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNOLOGY” to be “INSTRUCTIONAL” in general with technology embedded. Pamela stated that the edited survey would be deployed in September.

Discussion turned to the new survey specific to technology as used by or needed for counselors. A draft of items was distributed for discussion. Patricia suggests that this could be part of the overall survey in order to see how the statistics break down.

Master Plan - Nicholar Chang distributed photocopies of reports related to the Action Plan 2003-2004. The 7-31-2003 report on “Student Development Technology Planning” delineated priorities. However, it was noted that some items do not reflect new technologies, i.e., Ethernet versus wireless, or intranet versus Internet access. Mamie suggested that we would need variety rather than a single network solution. Nicholar also reported on various projects for (a) document imaging, (b) electronic transcripts, (c) transfer student tracking, both in and out of CCSF, etc. Category One priorities include new computer labs at John Adams and Downtown, and new computerized assessment testing. It was noted that online orientation is heavily used, 9000 students in the last year. Document imaging had to go to a second round of bids because the initial bid evaluation was compromised by a breakdown in funding and objectivity standards. Bar code can be used for many things but the existence of so many sites makes bar-code readers a problem. The Rosenberg Library uses bar code and the printed bar code has saved a great quantity of staff hours. The integration of “stand alone” software, such as SARS Grid that generates reports of usage, has not been completed. Currently, downloading from Banner to SARS is possible. Eventually, the program for uploading to Banner will be completed. Some stand-alone software and data like DSPS files and Medical Records may need to remain unconnected to Banner for confidentiality. Automated degree audit will provide very helpful reports for student. They will be able to get a diagnostic result based on options such as transfer to UC or CSU. The delay is the need to enter all the courses, scholastic programs and such into the database.

Nicholar will demonstrate the Electronic Educational Planning tool at the May meeting.

Strategic Objective 7.1 - Yevgeniya Malamud reported on IPTV. She distributed a handout that lists questions to be answered, and sites examples of this technology in use, e.g., Southeast Technical College, where it is used with their distance-learning program. Grants should be pursued as a need is identified. This technology has components that include expensive cameras and microphones, and specialized staffing for tech support and assisting at remote locations. The University of Wisconsin recommends a stable teaching situation and extensive training for the instructors. At present, the only interactive solution is found in online synchronous applications. One tool is called EZ-Engine Machine 1.0-Comweb. Mamie noted that IPTV would require a great deal of stable funding because it cannot be done on the fly. Francine underscored that we have done a lot of fact finding, including field trips. She stated that it is necessary to separate the technology from the pedagogy to make progress in defining objectives. Bonnie suggested that Pam might need to add a question about IPTV or similar technologies to the new faculty technology survey. Mamie noted that funding requests would be more compelling with fully developed examples of how students will benefit. John Odell defined the question in terms of student development: "What problems of student access to services does IPTV solve?" Francine mentioned CSU, Chico and CSU, Sacramento as sources of initial responses to this question.

EATV, cable casting - John Odell reported on interactive, live cable casting of classes. CCSF has 12 telecourses, but this is an entirely different technology. CCSF has three public education channels for which the mandate is to do educational programming. Except for the cost of telecourses, everything is sourced free; the Annenberg Foundation has a 24-hour, 7 days a week, free feed of educational programming. EATV was a partnership between SF Unified School District and CCSF, but Annenberg replaced them. Their programming targets K-12, parents, teachers and college students. The library of content and the live feed include events such as the City Arts and Lectures series, CCSF Board meetings, the international news programming on SCOLA (which is a feed from SFSU because it doesn't have a channel), and student productions such as "A Mid Summer's Night Dream." Francine says steaming on the web would extend the channel beyond Comcast cable television users.

Strategic Objective 7.1.E was addressed by Janet briefly due to time constraints. There will be a relevant meeting on May 3 at 2:00 in Arts Extension X170; the committee is chaired by Tom Blair. Yet, TLTR should carry-the-ball about web casting, and Tim Ryan would be involved. Comparing the capture of content from feeds in order to create archives of programming to out-right purchases of content, Tom Hetherington pointed out that publishers may have web versions that broadcast better than conversions of digital video, and that copyright issues may apply. The EATV group will be focusing on more local programming.

Training opportunities, Carol distributed flyers for @One and other technology training.

The next TLTR meeting will be May 2, 2005 in R518 on Ocean Campus.

The meeting was adjourned at 4:03 P.M.

Communication Committee

Minutes of April 5, 2005 meeting

1. APPROVAL OF MINUTES

Minutes from the March 2005 meeting were approved.

2. NEW CCSF CDROM – A DEMO

Martha Lucey distributed the new CCSF CD developed by students in the Multimedia department. The students should be commended for their professional quality work. The discussion that followed the viewing of the CD involved accessibility issues. As more and more departments use the college as a "client" for school projects, the development of a school-wide policy on accessibility is imperative. Tom Hetherington from DSP&S will discuss the next steps in this process with his department.

3. 70th ANNIVERSARY ACTIVITIES

Activities planned for the celebration include:

- A 70th anniversary edition of the CCSF catalog and schedule which has a theme of "recognizing our own." Photos of the many CCSF employees who have graduated from CCSF are highlighted.

- CCSF historical exhibits at all of the CCSF library locations

- Event entitled, "Conversations with People Who Make a Difference"

- Michael Blumenthal, the 64th Secretary of the Treasury, under President Carter will speak. Blumenthal began his education at CCSF.

- Jeffrey Sacks, author of "The End of Poverty," and Sergei Brin, CEO and co-founder of Google were also invited to speak.

- International Diplomacy Council has been asked to co-sponsor the event.

- Trilogy of publications include: 1) CCSF Works of Art; 2) History of the College; and 3) Chancellor's Publication.

- CCSF will advertise with inserts in the SF Chronicle and Examiner, highlighting its history.

- Festival of the Performing Arts to include music, dance, theater, and film.

4. ACCREDITATION UPDATE

Francine Podenski distributed the updated version of the text from the co-chairs report which references the Communication Committee. Committee members will review and email comments to the group.

5. EATV-CH27 STUDY GROUP

The committee discussed strategies to develop the study group. Tom Blair will chair the study group. Blair will write a brief article for City Currents which will in part solicit members. One member of the Academic Senate will be included to represent the faculty. A community member should also be represented. The Chancellor would like listening sessions throughout the city. A preliminary meeting will be set.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Summer Faculty – Rosenberg Library Update

All the City College campus libraries will be open during the summer session. Hours of operation will be posted on the library website, www.ccsf.edu/Library.

At the Rosenberg Library, reference librarians will offer five research skills/information competency workshops, as well as providing individual instructional support at the reference desks in support of assignments. The workshops are offered on a first-come, first-serve basis (no sign-up is necessary):

- Tuesday, June 14, 1:10-2 P.M., Workshop B, “Finding Periodical Articles in Online Databases.”
- Wednesday, June 15, 12:10-1 P.M., Workshop W, “Web Research and Evaluating Information.”

Thursday, June 16, 11:10 A.M.-12 NOON, Workshop C, “Internet and Web Basics.”

• Tuesday, June 21, 5:10-6 P.M., Workshop B, “Finding Periodical Articles in Online Databases.”

• Wednesday, June 22, 1:10-2 P.M., Workshop W, “Web Research and Evaluating Information.”

• Friday June 24 1:10-2 P.M., Workshop A, “Finding Books and Audio-Visual Materials.”

The Library will be introducing part of its new online, integrated catalog, CityCat this summer. Once all the modules are implemented, CityCat will offer all users more access and services than the former catalog. Just a few examples of increased access include having a Chinese and Spanish language interface; being able to view new titles on order; and much more information about periodical holdings.

Instructors and counselors who want to encourage students to become familiar with the main facilities and services in the Rosenberg Library and building can refer students to do the self-guided, interactive walking tour. It takes about 15 to 20 minutes and is marked with yellow and black tour signs. There are several questions along the route, which engage students in using a resource or in interacting with a staff member. Tell your students to pick up a copy at the Reference Desk, 4th floor. You can view it online at <http://www.ccsf.edu/Library/WALKING-TOUR.pdf>
