Lillie Wong donates $373,130 to CCSF Foundation

“City College gave me my start,’ is a refrain we hear all the time from so many – but this heartfelt statement came from my 87-year-old Aunt Lillie Wong who graduated from City College in 1949,” says Trustee Lawrence Wong. She then went on to Golden Gate University Law School and later started a career in real estate. As an Asian woman, nobody would hire her and after an extensive search for a job she was finally given a chance to work in a real estate office in the Mission District. In her first year on the job she was such a success that she did better in sales commissions then any other employee in the office.

“Aunt Lillie” later opened up her own office, because she was the only Asian woman in real estate who was also bilingual, she cornered the Chinese American market. That was 50 years ago. “After regaling my Aunt Lillie about the new Chinatown /North Beach Campus project that I have been working on for the past 12 years and the many obstacles we have had to confront, she said she wanted to help,” Trustee Wong noted. “The funds have been earmarked for the new Chinatown Campus. Thank you Auntie Lillie!”

“This donation represents a significant step forward for the College in raising alternative resources to help fulfill our dreams and aspirations for the Chinatown/North Beach Campus,” said Dr. Philip R. Day, Jr., Chancellor. “It also demonstrates the critical role that alumni, such as Ms. Wong and Trustee Wong, play in the future of the College and ensuring our faculty, staff and students will be able to teach and learn in a dynamic and state-of-the-art facility. All of us are truly grateful for the generosity of Ms. Wong as well as to Trustee Wong who helped to secure this important gift.”

“We are honored and grateful to Mrs. Lillie Wong and to our City College alumnus, Trustee Lawrence Wong, for setting a standard for students, faculty, administrators and other alumni with their compelling commitment of giving back to the College they attended. Lillie Wong’s investment is the largest alumni contribution in the 70-year history of City College, said Dr. Kathleen Alioto, Executive Director and Dean, The Foundation of City College of San Francisco.

Lawrence Wong added that City College continues to enrich Lillie Wong’s life at age 87: “For the past three years she has taken computer classes twice a week.”

Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger has just approved a one time allocation of $5 million to resuscitate the AB1725 program for staff development at California community colleges.

One of the stipulations for reactivating the funding was that each district have an advisory committee in place composed of administrators, faculty and classified representatives to facilitate the distribution process. Since CCSF's original AB1725 Professional Development Committee has remained intact and continued meeting under the supervision of Clara Starr, Director of Human Resources, CCSF is all set to go! The Committee took action to roll out these funds immediately, using the guidelines that CCSF still had in place.

More detailed information about the program will be forthcoming from the Office of Professional Development about the guidelines, but if you want to get started now, some general information is provided below:

Most of you will probably be interested in the Conference/Travel Program. Anyone who has been employed by City College of San Francisco for six months or more is eligible for this funding. The allocation has been increased to $750/year to adjust for cost of living. Travel, registration costs, and food and lodging expenses can be provided for applicants who want to attend an officially sanctioned conference.

The Tuition grant provides up to $750/year for tuition or registration fees for applicants who successfully complete a course(s) of study given by an accredited college or university. Books, materials, and transportation costs are not covered under this allocation.

Special Projects funding is available to programs or departments interested in offering staff development activities which could take place within, or outside of the District and which might require a facilitator, luncheon costs, facilities rental, etc.

AB 1725 Staff Development Sponsored Activities is for broad ranged staff development activities designed to move the District as a whole toward its educational goals as outlined in the Master Plan. Whereas the Special Projects grant is directed toward the needs of specific departments or programs, AB Staff Development Sponsored activities address overall institutional needs. Some examples of these needs would be instructional skills workshops, workshops dealing with diversity in the workplace, etc.

The above have just been roughed in to get us started and may be modified after a second look. But they offer general directions that some of you might start thinking about.

To obtain a form to apply for AB1725 staff development funds please telephone Elizabeth Tavisora in the Professional Development Office at (415) 241-2246.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Leilani F. Battiste named Director of ADA Compliance

After a rigorous selection process the Board of Trustees approved October 26 the appointment of Leilani (Lani) F. Battiste as a new administrator with the title Director of ADA Compliance “Lani’s primary responsibility is the implementation of the settlement agreement that the Federal Court is holding the College to, a situation with little or no wiggle room,” said Peter Goldstein, Vice Chancellor for Finance and Administration. “Lani will also be the College’s contact person for a variety of ADA matters.”

Battiste has been outside counsel for the San Francisco Community College District from 2001 to the present, and has practiced with various private law firms. She earned a Master of Laws, International Legal Studies with Honors from the Golden Gate University School of Law, San Francisco; a Juris Doctor from the University of California Hastings College of the Law, San Francisco; and a Bachelor of Arts in English from University of the Pacific, Stockton.

RECOGNITION OF ACHIEVEMENT

Special ‘Ebbie’ awarded to CCSF

Dr. Natalie Berg, Center, President, City College Board of Trustees, and Phyllis McGuire (right), Associate Vice Chancellor, Workforce and Economic Development, receive the Special Director’s Award from Robert Corrigan, President of San Francisco State University and current Chair, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. The award is a special recognition by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce of City College of San Francisco’s outstanding contribution to the quality of life and economic vitality of San Francisco. The award was given out at a ceremony on November 1 at the Westin St. Francis Hotel.

Remind students of scholarship opportunities

As the semester begins to wind down to finals, the Scholarship Office would like to take the opportunity to ask administrators, faculty and classified to help us remind students that a large number of scholarships will be offered by CCSF in Spring 2007. Encourage students to apply for all scholarships they are eligible for and begin work on their applications and obtaining Letters of Recommendation now. Among these scholarships are:

- The Yvonne Z. Stoupe $5,000 Scholarship for continuing CCSF students majoring in biology, chemistry, engineering (not CIS) English, journalism, romance languages, mathematics, music, theatre arts, visual arts (art, art history, sculpture, painting, drawing, ceramics, printmaking, photography or film) physics, astronomy, earth sciences, philosophy or history. The early deadline for applications for this scholarship is February 2, 2007.

- The Billwiller $12,000 Scholarship for students transferring to a baccalaureate institutions during the Fall 2007 semester as a full-time junior to major in computer and information science or humanities. (Humanities is defined in the broad sense of the term and includes literature, broadcasting, journalism, philosophy, study of language and culture, history, political science, fine arts, music, social sciences, applied arts, architecture, theater arts, film, photography and graphic arts.) The deadline for this scholarship application is March 2, 2007.

- The Debs Family Community College $500 Scholarship for students enrolled in any academic or vocational program. The deadline for this scholarship is continuously open. Students may apply at any time.

The Scholarship Website will be updated in early December with new General, Select, Stoupe, Billwiller and Debs applications for the students. Another change the Scholarship Office has made is to streamline the Letter of Recommendation process for the students and those they request a recommendation from. The new form is available on the web at www.ccsf.edu/Services/Scholarships/letters.pdf

If you have any questions, please contact Karen Grant in the Scholarship Office, 239-3615 or kgrant@ccsf.edu

RACE, CULTURE AND THE ACHIEVEMENT GAP

Dr. Geneva Gay addresses the CCSF community

By Alisa Messer

English Department

“The best I can do is frustrate you,” Dr. Geneva Gay warned as she began her talk, referring to the one-hour timeframe allotted. Faculty and students were crowded into the Visual Arts lecture hall on Friday, October 27th to hear from the internationally known scholar of multicultural education, who was to address “Race, Culture and the Achievement Gap: Is Cultural Diversity an Obstacle or a Resource for Achievement?”

Dr. Gay’s commanding presence and playful attitude, accented by a bright red blazer and hair pulled back in a professorial bun, did not seem to frustrate so much as engage. Even on a Friday afternoon with audience members filling the seats, aisles, and most of the available floor space, Dr. Gay’s dynamic presentation style held the group’s full attention. Dr. Gay, who at one point joked that she’s learned to make her lectures more interesting by using herself as a visual aid, is Professor of Education at University of Washington and an associate at its Center for Multicultural Education. Her extensive scholarship, which encompasses numerous books and articles, includes Culturally Responsive Teaching: Theory, Research, and Practice (2000). Her talk functioned as a necessarily incomplete, whirlwind overview of the necessity for multicultural perspectives in and approaches to education.

While acknowledging at the outset that other kinds of diversity and equity are also key factors in the U.S., Dr. Gay was explicit about her own area of expertise: her focus on race, ethnicity, and culture, she explained, is a central one for our society, and one we generally try to avoid. “We’ll do lots of things before we talk race,” she quipped.

“It’s hard to build a future on top of existing realities,” she cautioned, especially when some realities—such as race—are “too corrosive.” This corrosiveness, she explained, is a heritage we all need to acknowledge and understand.

“Racism is pervasive and incipient throughout our society,” she continued. Though it is not always active or intentional, it is “in the air we breathe,” and it shows up in our institutions. These include our educational systems, where a racial divide can be found on all levels of student achievement in schools, including college, where it can be measured by indicators that include time to degree, level of debt, and college experience satisfaction.

Are race, ethnicity and culture an obstacle or a resource in education? Dr. Gay’s answer to this question, posed by her talk, was emphatically “both.”

“Race is not an obstacle because it is inherently limiting,” Dr. Gay said, “but because of how our institutions address issues of diversity.” Too often, she said, they deal with diversity as a deficit. Traditional forms of teaching are not always a good fit, culturally, for many Students of Color, yet we teach diverse students in “traditional paradigms.” She reminded the crowd that “not everybody learns best this way.”

But “when institutional climates and practices radiate diversity,” it becomes instead a powerful resource. “The evidence is in: when Students of Color are exposed to their own database and experiences [in their educational environment], achievement improves.” Extensive research shows this to be true for both K-12 and college, Dr. Gay explained.

Diversity is a powerful resource for inclusion. “Learning is an intense, high-risk kind of thing,” she warned, so some level of environmental comfort is necessary: “Visually, the message must be ‘you count.’” Likening the campus to a home, Dr. Gay said that visual cues can transform the environment for everyone, so that “every time you turn around,” the message is “this is a place for me.”

While faculty members have a responsibility to this process or curriculum transformation and knowing how to make it happen, it is not an insurmountable one: “If we don’t know,” Dr. Gay explained, then “we ought to know how to know. We ask students to do this, after all.”

Students, in fact, are part of this resource, and faculty can learn to tap that. “All of us—students, faculty, and staff—are walking competencies,” she exclaimed. “Even with a GPA of 0.5, there is a fund of knowledge” that can be used to engage learning.

“We have to start with changing our attitudes and beliefs about Students of Color,” Dr. Gay concluded, in order to achieve real changes in educating students and to move beyond the corrosiveness of racism. “Attitudes guide our behaviors,” she reminded the crowd, and building alternative belief structures beyond “counterproductive beliefs and attitudes” will require a paradigmatic shift.

Dr. Gay’s visit was sponsored by the Multicultural Infusion Project and the Campus Change Network. Find more resources, including an article by Dr. Gay, online at www.ccsf.edu/mip.

The next speaker in the series will be award winning journalist Helen Zia, author of Asian American Dreams and co-author (with Wen Ho Lee) of My Country Versus

DR. GENEVA GAY

Me. Zia will speak about the intersections between racism and homophobia on Friday, November 17th, in Visual Arts 114 (2-3pm). All faculty, students and staff are welcome.

Faculty needs to be more involved in shared governance

By Fred Chavaria
First Vice President

Because of the current College building program, anticipated expansion and concomitant selection of new faculty and administrators, it is important for faculty to understand that we have a vital role to play.

As First Vice President of the Academic Senate I would like to alert faculty of their responsibilities in developing policy in Academic and Professional matters pursuant to Title 5 section 53200(c). “Academic and Professional matters:” means the following policy development and implementation matters:

1. Curriculum, including establishing prerequisites and placing courses within disciplines.
2. Degree and certificate requirements.
3. Grading policies.

4. Educational program development.
5. Standards or policies regarding student preparation and success.
6. District and college governance structures, as related to faculty roles.
7. Faculty roles and involvement in accreditation processes, including self-study and annual reports.
8. Policies for faculty professional development activities.
9. Processes for program review.
10. Processes for institutional planning and budget development.
11. Other academic and professional matters as mutually agreed upon between the governing board and the Academic Senate.

One of the ways we as faculty exercise these responsibilities is by serving on Shared Governance committees. Here are some committees that have several faculty vacancies. Please contact the chairs to see if their current issues interest you and if you are available at their meeting times.

- Cal Works Advisory, Chair: Jane Sneed, (415) 561-1811.
- Contract Education, Chair: Judy Teng, (415) 267-6523.
- Financial Aid Advisory, Chair: Susana Mayorga, (415) 239-3945
- Grading Policies Committee, Chair: Patty Chong-Delon, (415) 239-3867.

Finally, the Communication Committee has openings on the Publication Advisory, College Web Page Advisory and EATV-Channel 27 Advisory subcommittees. The Communication Committee chair is Francine Podenski who can be contacted at (415) 239-3351.

Faculty interested in serving on any of the aforementioned committees or who would like to know more about any of the college’s shared governance committees should contact the Academic Senate office at (415) 239-3611 or Senate First Vice President Fred Chavaria at (415) 239-3202 or fcharavi@ccsf.edu.

Business Dept. Fall Speaker Series to hear James Williamson

The Chief Financial Officer of one of San Francisco’s major private equity firms will be the next person to talk in the business Department’s Fall Speaker Series.

James Williamson of JH Partners, which has committed more than $850 million to buy slumping companies in order to turn them around to sell or take public, will speak on Thursday, November 30 from 10 to 11 A.M. The exact room will be announced at a later date.

Williamson has been CFO since joining the firm in 1999. He holds a Master of Arts degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and a certification from the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales. He is active in the nonprofit field and is on the board of the Horizons Foundation, which serves the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community by making grants, strengthening LGBT organizations and leadership, and increasing philanthropic giving. He served for more than five years on the board of the Asian & Pacific Islander Wellness Center and was a member of the LGBT Advisory Committee to the San Francisco Human Rights Commission.

Inaugurating the series on September 28 was Willa Seldon who spoke about “From Classroom to Boardroom” and her ascent in both the private and non-profit sectors, as well as her career as a venture capitalist. Seldon serves on the board of Bryn Mawr College and The Foundation Incubator. She is a member of the Young Presidents’ Organization. Seldon holds a J.D. from Yale Law School, an MBA from Harvard University and an AB from Bryn Mawr.

Jim Davis, President of Chevron Energy Solutions, spoke to a standing-room only group of business students and faculty on October 13. Davis presented a slide show with pictures of a completed energy savings project at the US Postal Service facility in Bayview/Hunter’s Point which includes using energy-saving bulbs, a hydrogen fuel cell and solar panel arrays. He holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration, with a major in marketing from Ohio State University.

The Business Department developed the speaker series to allow CCSF students to learn firsthand from a diverse group of organizational leaders throughout business and industry.

Ft. Mason Art Sale Dec. 1–3

The CCSF Fort Mason Art Campus will present its 32nd annual Holiday Exhibition and Sale December 1 through 3. Student art works will be on display and for sale throughout the campus complex in building B, Laguna Street at Marina Boulevard. The exhibit and sale will begin with a preview reception (with live music) on Friday, December 1 from 6 to 9 P.M. Saturday, December 2 and Sunday, December 3, hours will be 10 A.M. to 5 P.M.

Also on display, from November 20 through January 23 will be a Faculty Art Show in the Coffee Galley.

Admission to all exhibitions is free. For further information, please call Christine Finnegan at (415) 561-1840.

Transgender Awareness Day

Please inform your students that City College's third annual Transgender Awareness Day will be held Monday, November 20 from 11:30 A.M. to 1 P.M.. This year there will be three locations on the Ocean Campus: the Cafeteria, the Rosenberg Library and the Creative Arts Lobby. At each station there will be an opportunity to participate in awareness raising activities, speak with peer educators and win prizes. HIV/STI Prevention Studies Office, along with the Service Learning Projects, Community Leadership Training and Transgender Voices/Transgender Rights are hosting the event.

Scott Joplin Concert Nov. 21

The City College of San Francisco Music Department presents its 24th annual Scott Joplin Birthday Ragtime Concert on Tuesday, November 21. It will begin at 11 A.M. and continue through to 12 NOON in Room 133 of the Creative Arts Building on the Ocean Campus. Admission is free. CCSF faculty scheduled to perform include Mary Argenti, Lenny Carlson, Eddie Chui, Dr. Helen Dilworth, Peggy Gorham, Rebecca Mauleon-Santana, Madeline Mueller and Marvin Tartak. For further information, please call (415) 239-3641.

October 2, 2006

1. Review and approval of agenda.

Agenda was approved.

2. Approval of Minutes

Minutes from September meeting were approved.

3. Election of Committee Chair for 2006–2007

Francine Podenski was re-elected as committee chair for another year. She graciously accepted.

4. Old Business

A. EATV-CH27 update

Maureen Barend provided the update. Upcoming election coverage will air during three consecutive Friday slots on EATV-CH27, eight hours in total. Coverage will be advertised in City Currents. EATV will begin collaborating with Bayview Hunters Point Center for Arts and Technology (BAYCAT), a non-profit youth group. BAYCAT works primarily with middle and high school students, training them in digital media. BAYCAT does great work. EATV would like to run their programs during the after school time slot. EATV is also working toward providing CCSF football highlights as well as providing public service announcements for spring semester recruitment in foreign languages. Languages include: Russian, Cantonese, Mandarin, Tagalog, and Spanish.

B. Tailored e-messaging update

Banner data can be harvested into e-mails tailored to specific target groups to help students move along in their educational process. This approach also has the potential to increase enrollment. Departments with low enrollment could use this form of communication in an effort to inform students about new classes, final registration dates, etc. Committee members cautioned that e-messaging should be used with great care to avoid having CCSF students feeling "spammed" by the college. The committee agreed that students should be given the opportunity to opt in/out of receiving college announcements. CCSF should explore ways to provide an opt in/out checkbox in the registration process. Steve Spurling presented the idea of e-messaging students to the DCC. The DCC showed interest. Also discussed was the need for a centralized process so that the various entities (i.e. Admissions & Registration; Research & Planning, Banner, individual instructors) who email students work together. A distinction was made between e-messaging CCSF announcements and an instructor's right to use email as a form of communicating with students.

C. College web page update

There is increased interest to redesign the college website. The idea of having a dynamic site should be explored.

D. Communications plan draft update

The Communications Plan draft will be reviewed by committee members this month and discussed at next month's meeting. Once it is agreed upon, the draft will be sent to the Board of Trustees, Academic Senate, DCC for comments.

5. New Business

A. Athletic Crest – Mark Robinson

Mark Robinson, Dean of Student Affairs, presented the committee with the Athletics Department crest. The committee is in support of trademarking the crest.

B. EATV-CH27 advisory subcommittee

EATV-CH27 subcommittee was unanimously agreed upon. Efforts to establish the subcommittee will move forward.
