AB 540 Workshop November 8 Helps Staff Counsel Students

Next Monday, November 8, faculty and staff can learn about AB 540, the law that allows undocumented students to pay resident tuition when they attend California community colleges and CSU, at a workshop in MUB 140 from 2:30-4:30.

The presentation will include a video, student testimonials, and a fundraising raffle with great prizes. The Office of Outreach and Recruitment is hosting the event. Associate Dean Laurie Scolari says "We need your help spreading the word that undocumented students may qualify for in-state tuition under the AB 540 law." The workshop will explain the eligibility criteria for these students to qualify for this tuition relief.

The primary benefit of this law is the right to pay California resident tuition rates. Non-resident students taking 12 units per semester pay approximately $2508. AB 540 students pay approximately $312 per semester. AB 540 students are not eligible to receive Financial Aid nor do they earn legal residency status through this bill.

Faculty will learn how the law works, the plight of undocumented students, and recent updates on services, and referrals for affected students.

Dear Colleagues,

At our meeting on October 28, the Board of Trustees adopted the 2010-2011 Final Budget that will enable City College to continue to serve over 100,000 students. We know, however, that a budget like this one means that City College cannot do everything that people have come to expect. Lives change and stress increases as everyone has an added workload with reduced resources. What will come in the future is unknown and uncertain.

We do too much of our work on the Board of Trustees isolated from the daily workings of the College, so it is hard to always remember just how profoundly numbers on a page change people’s lives and their working conditions. Each one of you has made a personal sacrifice in pay, and we are deeply grateful for your contribution.

City Currents will not be published on November 15.

We do not say it enough how much we appreciate your dedication to City College. We need to do that more and to make certain that you know that the Board knows just how excellent a workforce City College has. We look forward to the day when funding is plentiful...a day when the rest of society catches up to those of us who know that a good education is fundamental to a good life.

Until that time comes, let us support each other during these challenging times and grow stronger as a team as we weather this storm together.

Best,
Milton Marks, President; John Rizzo, Vice President; Natalie Berg, Anita Grier, Chris Jackson, Steve Ngo, Lawrence Wong, Esq., and Jeffrey Fang, Student Trustee.

San Francisco Employee
Combined Charities Campaign and
City College’s Annual Fall Giving Campaign

Dear Colleague,

Thank you for all your hard work and sacrifice during the last several years. Because of your dedication and commitment to City College, we have continued to provide the best educational experience for our students, even during these difficult economic times. We hope you take pride in knowing that City College is one of the best community colleges in the nation. We recognize this would not be possible without your loyalty and passion for our institution.

We understand and know that these are financially challenging times for everyone, and yet many of you still contribute and give toward the organizations you hold dear to your heart. As you know, the City and County of San Francisco solicits all employees each fall to contribute to the organization of their choice through the Combined Charities Campaign.

This is a unique opportunity for us to help shape our community. It enables us to pause and reflect on those values we feel are essential to our community and allows us to offer assistance to those in need. Through our combined efforts, we can take deliberate steps to ensure that the agencies and programs you support can continue making a positive impact.

Save Classes Through Combined Charities Campaign

You can also help City College save classes through the Combined Charities Campaign. As you know, many students could not get the classes they needed because of the Spring and Summer 2010 cancellation of classes. Although we have restored some classes in Fall 2010, we are still falling short of meeting student demand. The College continues to experience a budget crisis and we are trying to raise as many dollars as possible to save classes. Every dollar counts and your participation is greatly appreciated!

Four Ways to Donate to Classes

To make a donation through the Combined Charities Campaign, please contact Wendy Carmody at 241-2365 for the pledge form. You may choose any organization of your choice or you may select Foundation of City College of San Francisco, pledge #L2340 on the Combined Charities Donation Form to contribute to the Save Classes campaign.

Alternatively, you may make a donation directly to the District through payroll deduction. Please visit www.ccsf.edu/payrolldeduction for a payroll deduction form and specify Saving Classes.

For additional ways to donate, visit www.ccsf.edu (click on the red “CCSF DONATE” graphic).

Just imagine, if—in addition to what we’re already giving every day—each City College employee contributed a modest amount per pay period, we could raise hundreds of thousands of dollars and save dozens of classes, thereby providing students with access to education that they otherwise would not have been able to receive. Our goal is to achieve maximum participation by employees at whatever level is comfortable for you.

The last day to donate to Combined Charities is NOVEMBER 19.

Thank you for your generosity and consideration.

Sincerely,

Chinatown/NB Students Celebrate Citizenship Day with Federal Immigration Officials, CCSF Trustees

By Tina Chin,
Coordinator, ESL/Citizenship Program
Chinatown/North Beach Campus

Chinatown/North Beach Citizenship Day Celebration took place in the John Yehall Chin Auditorium at the Chinatown-North Beach Campus on Thursday, September 16, 2010.

Of the 107 students who became U.S. citizens this past year, thirty-one attended the event. More than 100 current Citizenship and ESL students were on hand to share in the achievement of the new citizens.

Immigration Officials Attend Ceremony

Staff and students alike were honored that U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Supervisor Carlos Guadamuz, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services Field Office Director Robin Barrett, and Community Relations Officer Rose Marie Fan, from the Department of Homeland Security, plus City College Trustee John Rizzo, and Student Trustee Jeffrey Fang were present to extend their congratulations.

Guadamuz and Barrett extended their congratulations to the new citizens and told the current students that they hoped to see them taking their naturalization tests very soon. Trustee John Rizzo told the students that he admired them for their efforts and accomplishments. Student Trustee Jeffrey Fang told the students that he and his parents immigrated to the United States from Taiwan, and he remembered his parents going through the same naturalization process. He is inspired by their accomplishment. The festive event was followed by a photo session with guests and the new citizens.

Citizenship Day (or Constitution Day) on September 17 commemorates the signing of the U.S. Constitution in Philadelphia on September 17, 1787. Over the past twenty years, the ESL/Citizenship faculty at the Chinatown-North Beach Campus has marked this occasion by acknowledging and extending congratulations to students who have become U.S. citizens within the last school year.

Review CCSF Anniversary Book for Amazon.com

If you have purchased a copy of the CCSF history book, and you think that it is worthy of a good review, please go to www.amazon.com, and write one! There are two five-star reviews so far.

If you have not purchased a copy of the book, please rush to any CCSF Bookstore and purchase one. Consider it as a gift for newly hired employees in your department, as a gift for former students and employees.

Please promote it with your current students. One department chair purchased a copy for everyone in his department. We are already in our second printing - amazing.--Julia Bergman and Val Mathes
CCSF Concert, City Events for Native American Month

November is Native American Heritage Month. To commemorate this event, a multimedia presentation, free and open to the public will be offered on Tuesday, November 9, 7-9PM, at the Ocean Campus in Creative Arts 133.

“On the Good Red Road: An Evening of Song, Film, and Sharing,” features noted recording artist and documentary filmmaker Chante Pierce, founder of Great Spirit Productions who has preformed with Sting and the Grateful Dead) and K.G. Guillen (drummer and vocalist who has preformed with many Native artists, including Claude McKenzie of Kashtin and with Chante Pierce at the United Nations 50th Anniversary Celebration.

This multimedia and interdisciplinary program, integrating both film and music, will draw from both traditional and contemporary Native themes. A question-answer period concludes the evening. Light refreshments will be served.

The “good red road” is a Native American concept of the right path of life, as inspired by some of the beliefs found in a variety of Native American religions.

Two Plays in Repertory for November at Diego Rivera Rivera

LANGUAGE OF ANGELS
by Naomi Iizuka, directed by Susan Jackson
NEW ORLEANS MONOLOGUES
by C. Rosalind Bell, directed by Gloria Weinstock

These plays, based on catastrophic events, will be performed in repertory in the Diego Rivera Theatre at City College of San Francisco.

LANGUAGE OF ANGELS is an eerie cycle of ghost stories, set in a cave in North Carolina.
After a young woman is lost in a cave on the edge of town, there is an investigation of her disappearance and the revelation of the fates of those left behind.

NEW ORLEANS MONOLOGUES is a collection monologues. The playwright has captured (from interviews) a side of the Katrina survivors that the news didn’t cover - their livesbefore and after the hurricane. We get a view of New Orleans citizens and their connection and perspectives on New Orleans and each other.

The Face of AB 540

Who are these students? What is their story? Nancy Vargas, a counselor coordinator at Mission Campus, says, "Whether many faculty realize it or not, they may have AB 540 students or potential AB 540 students in their classes. These students may feel alone and fearful. Knowledgeable counseling faculty and instructors can provide support."

Attendees to the workshop will learn the nuances of the law and will also gain an understanding of the role of CCSF's Transitional Studies High School Diploma Program in helping students meet AB 540 eligibility criteria.

Vargas continues, "Faculty will also learn about the newly formed AB 540 student club, "Students Advocating for Equity" (SAFE), and the role this club can play in offering support."

She has written the story of one AB 540 student, who is called "Carlos" to protect his identity. He is thriving as a student at CCSF, whereas at one time he thought he would never be able to attend college.

Carlos, AB 540 Student

By Nancy Vargas
Counselor, Mission Campus

One of the first people Carlos met at City College of San Francisco was Leti Silva of Latino Services Network (LSN). He knew he was in the right place when he noticed the sticker on her door that read: "I am a CCSF advocate, supporter and ally of AB 540 immigrant students."

He thought to himself, "This is a safe place." He had come to San Francisco at the urging of his friend who had been accepted to SFSU. Until then, he had not strayed far from Salinas since he had arrived there as a 12 year old boy from Mexico. No one in his family had ever attended college. He was the first to have graduated from high school as a teacher where he hopes to inspire students like himself.

Carlos expressed pride in his single mother who struggled hard to support him and his two younger sisters. Though she herself never had a formal education, she instilled in her children the idea that education would afford them better opportunities. She wanted the best for Carlos and his siblings.

Helped by His Middle School Teacher

The first person that took Carlos under her wing was his teacher and mentor in middle school, Ann Jaramillo. She made English easy to learn and understand. She fostered a friendly environment in class and welcomed student participation. Both Ann and her husband, whom Carlos affectionately refers to as padrinos (godparents), continue to maintain a relationship with Carlos even today. It was the Jaramillos who helped Carlos pack up his belongings and who drove him to San Francisco to start his new life.

After Carlos graduated high school, he went to work in the fields along with other migrant workers. He noticed that he was the only one who spoke English. It did not take him long to realize that if he didn't get a college education, his future opportunities would be limited. He had assumed that a college education was not within his reach due to the expensive tuition charged to non-residents, that is, until somebody told him about AB 540.

He learned that AB 540 was a law that would allow him to pay fees equivalent to those charged of California residents if he met certain criteria. That criteria included at least 3 years enrolled in a California high school and completion of a California high school diploma or a GED. In short, this law allowed him to attend Hartnell College where he completed his first year in college, before transferring to CCSF.

Carlos Has Become a Leader

As a student at Hartnell he co-founded the first AB 540 student club. It did not take CCSF's AB 540 students long to realize the leadership potential they had in Carlos. The newly formed AB 540 club, named Students Advocating for Equity (SAFE) elected him as their first vice-president.

Today Carlos is an active student leader in both SAFE and in another new club called Students Making a Change (SMAC), which encourages students of color to transfer to four-year universities.

Works and Studies Full-time

As an AB 540 student, Carlos does not qualify for Financial Aid. Instead he works full-time while going to school full-time so that he can afford rent and school expenses. Carlos plans to transfer to UC Berkeley where he will major in Latin American Studies/Chicano Studies. His goal is to work in International Development after he returns to high school as a teacher where he hopes to inspire students like himself.

Faculty who want to advocate for AB 540 students can learn more about the law and the needs of the students who qualify for it by attending the next Professional Development Event scheduled for Monday, November 8th, 2:30-4:30pm MUB 140. Please note that undocumented students like Carlos do NOT qualify for Financial Aid. All donations collected through the sale of raffle tickets will be used towards scholarships for students like Carlos and others deserving CCSF AB 540 students.

Fashion Students Recreate La “Belle Epoque”

By Diana Green
Chair, Fashion Department

One of the most glamorous and important events for the Fashion Department was their ninth annual spring fashion show which took place in May at the Wellness Center.

This student-produced fashion show was partially underwritten by Macy’s and raised over $5,000 from ticket sales.

“Belle Epoque,” drew its inspiration from the underground world of circus life in 1920’s Paris. With a modern, whimsical twist on the theme, sultry models strutted down the runway, showcasing the innovative fashions of CCSF student designers. Dramatic backdrops, stilt-walkers, dancers, drummers and French music, evoked a time and place of old world decadence.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation to Caroline Jacoby of a two year fully-paid for fashion scholarship to the Academy of Art University.

This year’s event reinforces the notion that San Francisco is still a major laboratory for budding designers. At CCSF, young designers who may not be able to afford a private fashion conservatory have the opportunity to develop and hone their skills, make connections, and most importantly, get exposure.

“Belle Epoque” was the moment that many students will remember as the catalyst for their careers and the first ray of sunshine to spotlight their talent.

Four Chosen for MESA Science Leadership Conference in October

A select group of four CCSF students were among 150 college students across California chosen to participate in a special leadership conference.

The Mathematics, Engineering, Science Achievement (MESA) Student Leadership Conference offered extensive professional and leadership development through direct interaction with industry mentors and speakers.

The hand-picked MESA students, all science, engineering, or math majors, were from 24 universities and community colleges across the state, including CCSF.

Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) sponsored the event, and more than 25 PG&E employees volunteered their time to work closely with the students during the two-day conference in October.

PG&E has supported MESA since 1979. William Harper, PG&E vice president and chief diversity officer and MESA board member, addressed the students and encouraged them to continue.

“I see the future in this room that is why PG&E is committed to building a workforce that reflects the diversity of our customers of the future by working with organizations like MESA,” he told the group.

NASA astronaut and MESA alumnus Jose Hernandez spoke to MESA students during the event.

The astronaut motivated students to continue through tough engineering and math courses with stories of his upbringing as a farm worker in central California.

He went on from that humble background to fly aboard the Discovery space shuttle in 2009. He participated in MESA while a student at the University of the Pacific and UC Santa Barbara.

“It’s very important what MESA is doing to support you to stay in these fields,” Hernandez said. “I’m a product of MESA, so you see good things come out of the program.”

Now celebrating its 40th anniversary, MESA is one of the largest programs in the state to support educationally disadvantaged students so they can graduate from college with science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) degrees.

Holiday Jobs Are Available

The Holiday Jobs Recruitment event on October 21 was a success. There were over three hundred students who attended and participated with about a dozen employers. For those students who were unable to attend, they can still have access to the 2010 Holiday Resource Guide which lists over twenty employers who are still hiring for seasonal/holiday positions. Please refer students to the Career Development Counseling Department at Science Hall, room 127, main campus.

For additional information, contact Josephine Ubungen, jubungen@ccsf.edu.

The Career Development Counseling department would like to thank everyone for their help in making the event a success, especially representatives from the MultiCultural Retention Program, CalWorks, Financial Aide, Registration Center and the Transfer Center.

Faculty Exhibition and Silent Art Auction Soon

Exhibition Dates: November 8 to December 9, 2010
Exhibition Location: City College Art Gallery, VA119
Auction Dates: November 8 to December 6, 2010
Auction Location: Glass showcases in the Visual Arts Building hallway near the gallery

The Art Department’s annual faculty exhibit will be on view at City College’s Art Gallery from November 8 to December 9. Concurrently with the faculty exhibit, the Art Department hosts its annual silent auction in the showcases in the hallway in the Visual Arts Building. The Art Department faculty has generously donated the works in the art auction.

All proceeds go toward the operation of our CCSF gallery. This is an opportunity for you to buy works of art at great prices and support our campus art gallery.

Auction items are on display in the glass showcases in the hallway near the gallery, in the Visual Arts Building, and are clearly marked as “auction.” (Please note that the art works on exhibit in the gallery are not part of the auction.) Auction dates are November 8 to December 6 (Monday until 3pm).

Joe Morlan Wins Prestigious National Birding Award

Joe Morlan, CCSF Instructor and a long-time member and supporter of Sequoia Audubon Society, has received the prestigious American Birding Association (ABA) Ludlow Griscom Award, an annual prize "given to individuals who have dramatically advanced the state of ornithological knowledge for a particular region." Joe Morlan joins such distinguished birding greats as Roger Tory Peterson, Kenn Kaufman, Rich Stallcup, Ted Parker, Claudia Wilds, Stuart Keith, and Guy McCaskie, previous recipients of the Griscom Award.

Joe Morlan’s extensive contributions to Northern California birding span over three decades, during which time he has taught countless birders through his classes at City College of San Francisco, where he is an instructor. He launched, and has maintained, the Northern California Bird Box, a telephone messaging system for alerting birders to rarities in the area.

He extended these efforts with his website, http://fog.ccsf.edu/~jmorlan/ devoted to all aspects of birding across the state of California.

Joe served as co-author of the 1979 publication "Birds of Northern California, An Annotated Field List." He revised the work for the 1988 edition as well. Joe edited The Birds of San Francisco and the Bay Area by Chris Fisher, in 1996. He is a well-known contributor to birding publications, and an active force in the Western Field Ornithologists (WFO). Joe Morlan has been a valued member of the California Bird Records Committee (CBRC) for over two decades.

Joe Morlan is an example of the many and varied achievements of so many faculty members of CCSF who enrich the education of our students,~~
