SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., July 11, 2002 — New students can register online and by telephone for Fall 2002 courses at City College of San Francisco starting July 17 and continuing through August 13. In-person registration for new students will start July 31.

Instruction begins Monday, August 19 at all 12 campuses and more than 100 instructional sites throughout San Francisco. Credit courses are still just $11 per unit, while noncredit courses are free of tuition. The full range of courses offered is listed on the web site as well as in a printed schedule available at any City College of San Francisco campus.

For the convenience of students, City College of San Francisco offers classes which meet during the day, at night and on weekends. Some classes are taught online and via television. Students also can choose from a variety of short-term courses, ranging in length from a single meeting to half a semester.

City College of San Francisco is the educational institution students choose for:

- an affordable quality higher education, be it an Associate's Degree or the courses needed to transfer to a four-year university to earn a Bachelor's Degree;
- help in choosing a career directly out of high school;
- training to improve or upgrade their current career skills or to re-enter the workforce in a new career;
- a second chance at learning basic skills; and
- language, job and citizenship skills critical to first-generation Americans and immigrants.

Busy working adults can apply to City College of San Francisco online at www.ccsf.edu. In addition, students can complete their orientation, pay for their fees and even purchase books online. Applicants also may telephone the Office of Admissions and Records at (415) 239-3285.
