A Conversation with Derald Wing Sue, Ph.D.

Resisting Microaggressions: Are we too sensitive or is this what modern bigotry looks like?

A Conversation with Derald Wing Sue, Ph.D.

Thursday, January 31st
12:30-2 pm
Lower Level Student Union
Ocean Campus

Derald Wing Sue, Professor of Psychology at Columbia University, is one of the most cited multicultural scholars in the United States. His most recent book focuses on the impact of microaggressions in daily life and how to recognize, challenge and cope with them.

His previous books include Counseling the Culturally Diverse: Theory and Practice and Overcoming Our Racism.

Microaggressions usually involve demeaning implications and other subtle insults. They include microassaults, microinsults and microinvalidations. They are the constant and continuing everyday reality of slights, insults, invalidations, and indignities visited upon marginalized groups. (Sue, 2010)

With questions and to RSVP for groups, please contact Tracy Burt, tburt@ccsf.edu, 452-7171.
Any person(s) requiring accommodations please contact DSPS at 415-452-5481.
Please give at least 72 hours notice.